B.C. DOES NOT EXPECT U.S. TO PAY FOR ROAD

PAI FUR RUAD

Premier Pattulio explained to The Times to-day that his statement yesterday of R.C.'s attitude to R.C.-Alaska Highway was not intended to convey the impression that the government proposed the United States should pay for consiruction of the road.

If the United States wished to negotiate with Ottawa and the federal government would undertake to finance the construction of the road, then R.C. would have no objection, the Freemer pointed out. Then the province would consider repayment of the cost in the future. At the present time, however, the government did not have the necessary funds to expend on the project in view of demands from all over the province fog works.

Police of Toronto Call on Commission to Put Good Conduct Badge System Into Force Again

They Will Be Heard Declares the Mayor

Toronto, March 1.—Un-less good conduct badges are restored and other grievances redressed there grievances redressed there will be a strike of Toronto police at 12 o'clock Saturday midnight, William Hutchinson, president of the Toronto Police Association, announced to-day. There is no question about there being a strike if the badge system is flot restored, according to Mr. Butchinson.

against the board of control's cancellation of the merit barge system.

The mayor added he did not think the citizens need fear a strike. "The police are reasonable men," he stated,
"They want their grievances heard by the board of control, and I am sure both the hoard and the police commission will give them a hearing."
Magistrate Frank Denton, a member of, the police commission, said the commission had never opposed the system of good conduct badges and was "verg much opposed" to cutting it off.

A VANISHING PARTY

THE MORNING PAPER YESTERDAY observed that there was not a single Conservative, named, in the Provincial Legislature, a condition high has not existed since party government was neituted in British Columbia in 1903. Our commonsry, while blaming the late administration for illing Conservation as a force in provincial politics, oints gut that since then nothing worthy of the attempt as been done to revive the provincial fortunes of the arty. Matters, it says, have been allowed to drift. We convention is in sight to decide on future leadership and to draft a party programme; every effort to levine ways and means of calling Conservatives together is negatived by the central executive of the sarty. The Colonist adds that this apathy bids fair also to wipe out British Columbia Conservative representation in the House of Commons. "Without eadership, without enthusiasm, without a programme," a asks, "what can the Conservatives do?"

It asks, "what can the Conservatives do?"

The phenomenon which excites our contemporary's melancholy comment of course is glaringly obvious. Nobody in the Legislature calls himself a Conservative without some kind of a handle to the designation. He is either an Independent, a Unionist, or non-party. He felt he had to be that to be elected, so dismal were the prospects of the party which but a few years ago swept itself triumphantly into office. Nor is it altogether true that the Tolmie administration should carry the whole blame for the destruction of the party. The Conservative members of the House, not to speak of the various party associations through-the party. The Conservative members of the House, not to speak of the various party associations throughout the province, and even our contemporary, must assume a share of the responsibility in the final analysis.

Premier Tolmie could not have caused the dissolution of the party if his supporters had not actively or passively approved of his course. Those in the House could have voted him down at any time, and although this would have involved a change of government they would have preserved the party ship. There was bound to be a change in any case, although they—apparently—did not see it. They wanted to apparently—did not see it. They wanted to elected, whether on the government or opposition be elected, whether on the government or opposition side, regardless of consequences to the party, and, putting on their life-preservers; they jumped overboard. Some of them were drowned but a few got back and they are still wearing their life-preservers.

But it is not only in British Columbia that the Conservative Party has abandoned its moorings, although nowhere else has the designation become so politically unfashionable. Even the federal party through Mr. Bennett has taken up policies which in many aspects are so directly in conflict with historic Conservatism that stern and unbending Tories of the old school must fairly writhe with consternation.

We may even have to contemplate an attempt by Mr. Bennett to form a union party, in which case

We may even have to contemplate an attempt by.

Mr. Bennett to form a union party, in which case federal Conservatism would vanish from the Dominion field as completely as it has from the provincial field.

Mr. Bennett is just as anxious in these closing days of his fifth and final year to manoeuvre himself back into power as the Tolmie administration was towards the end of its fifth and final term. In such a case we wender what hind of life recovery. wonder what kind of life-preservers his supporters would wear, and what would be the reaction of the Conservatives in this province who have been con-soling themselves with the reflection that although the party has disappeared here as a provincial factor it is still a force in federal politics?

BUT STILL ON THE BRIDGE

OT UNTIL HE FEELS HE CAN NOT

Mr. MacDouald is a very sincere man. He is a master, however, of the most platitudinal verbosity imaginable. Yet who, so matter from what part of the Britannic Commonwealth he or she may come, does not thrill at his pronunciation of the word world. We do not attempt to suggest how many "r's" he puts into it. It is fascinating nevertheless.

into it. It is fascinating nevertheless.

The British Prime Minister's statement at Doscaster, by the way, brings to mind the fact that the weight he is pulling in the governmental boat is not considered very weighty by some of those colleagues who contribute to the big majority of a so-called national government. To the younger element, for example, he is anotherma. He still represents to them the Socialism of the gay nineties—the man who on May 23, 1917, hailed with delight the Russian revolution, the man whom another, who was not fit to clean his shoes, christened Ramsay von MacDonald-bacher.

But Premier MacDonald, as an internationalist, is sound at heart. He is a lonely Prime Minister. He is a lamb among lions—for the time being—and, as The Manchester Guardian said a week or so ago, is the man who "is rapidly becoming the cabinet's public enemy number one."

THE REFUNDING SCHEME

IN HIS BUDGET SPEECH ON WEDNESday, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced that preparations had been made to enable the province to take advantage "at the earliest opportune time" to refund $127,000,000 of the provincial debt at 3 per cent and thereby effect savings of more than $6,750,000 a year for the next five years

It will be readily understood what the savings which Mr. Hart confidently anticipates he will be able to make under his refunding scheme will mean to British Columbia's financing when it is realized that at present more than half the annual income is required to meet interest and sinking fund charges.

The provincial gross debt at present amounts to $169,902,872.37 and the average rate of interest works out at 4.67 per cent—or a total of $7,935,-231.09. This, of course, does not take into consideration requirements of the sinking fund, which account for approximately another four million dollars.

approximately another four million dollars.

The 1934-1935 budget called for an estimated revenue of $22,482,750 with $11,663,086 earmarked for interest and sinking fund charges. In other words—and we give these particulars because they show the difficulty with which the Minister of Finance is faced—this left less than $11,000,000 for everything else—public works, administration of justice, education, hospital grants, social services, and other provincial requirements.

It will be seen, therefore, that if Mr. Hart is able to carry through his refunding scheme as presented in his budget speech, not only will his task be less onerous, but the burden of the British Columbia taxpayer will be very considerably lightened.

A BIG DISCREPANCY

WHEN BRITISH COLUMBIA ENTERED the Canadian Confederation WHEN BRITISH COLUMBIA ENTERED the Canadian Confederation it received a per capita allowance from the federal treasury of eighty cents for purposes of government and legislation. Quoting Sir A. T. Galt, one of the fathers of Confederation and the chief financial authority when the Dominion came into being, as well as Sir Wilfrid Laurier in later times, Hon. John Hart says this allowance was intended to cover the cost of provincial public services such as administration of justice, hospitals, education, charities, and others. In 1933 these services cost the province more than $7,969,000, while the federal grant for that year amounted to $555,410. Even with other subsidies adopted subsequently to 1871 the allowance in 1933 was less than $875,000. British Columbia also surrendered its right to 1871 the allowance in 1933 was test than $673,000.

British Columbia also surrendered its right to collect customs and excise taxes when it became a province of the Dominion. In the seven years ending in 1934, the Minister estimates, the federal government collected duties under these heads aggregating $126,000,000, while the total of the subsidies received in that period was $5.578,951.

If we added to the $126,000,000, covering the seven-year period, the collection by Ottawa of income, sales, stamp and other taxes in excess of the sum expended on Dominion public services and public works in the province, the discrepancy would be even more startling. All this has to do with the financial delicious between the two governments. On top of relations between the two governments. On top of this drain there is the enormous adverse balance against British Columbia in its trade with the eastern provinces, from which we buy over $97,000,000 more than we sell to them.

He had thought up a beautiful picture which, he said. reminded him of the Mayor of Vancouver. He thought of a kitchen clock and a small boy taking it apart, just to see what made it tick. He thought of the mayor of Vancouver taking apart the civic clock and finding it too tightly wound and then, suddenly, the main apring sprang out with a roar precipitating upon the community a mighty nut. One had no difficulty identifying the nut. TO CONFISCATE CURLING IRONS

Chinese National Officers Forbidden to Marry Women Who Bob Hair

hanghal, China, March 1.—A tre-slous furor has been raised among women of China by Gen. Chiang shek's orders, issued at his head-ters in Handhang, to the effect officers of the national army ere sidden to marry women who hos un' their hair. Bobbed and curied c, says the annouscement, are rimental to health and to good reanisations, and drastic proposals are ciscussed. One proposition was that all "modern-minded women" cluse to marry army officers or members of the Euomintang party, and that those already married to them should immediately take steps for divorce. The decree ordering official confiscation of all curling irons drew particular fire, and a decision was reached to "launch a campaign to educate the general public."

The conservative Nanking Women's Association, in a circular telegram to all similar organizations in the country, not only supports the decree against bobbed and curled hair, but also tirgs the women of China to give up the use of cosmetics, declaring that in "this time of national emergency, the stupendous sum wasted in cosmetic imported from abroad constitutes a diagrace to our womanhood."

The detectives handled twenty-fire cases of breaking and entering and retaining stolen property, in which convictions were obtained, and three others cases were sent for trial in the higher court, it was reported. Tribute was paid to Inspector McLeilan as head of the department.

Embodied in the report was the request of members of the department for restoration dr-a portion of their

Canada People," J. C. Campbell Tells Rotarians

"The real estate owned by all the people of Canada" was the term given to the National Parks of the Dominion by J. C. Campbell, director of the parks, when showing his pictures to members of the Boiary Club at lunchesn yesterday at the Emprise Stotel, Such pictures were distributed all over the world, Mr. Campbell said, by the Department of the Interior. The roads in the parks were kept in good condition and this fact added to the attractiveness of the areas, he said. The wild life of the national parks was heautifully outlined in the picture. The Grey Out picture, taken in Frizee Albert Mational Park showed.

will be able to beautify the appearance of Newport Avenue along the portion estending from the car tername, by planting Japanese plum and crimace hawthorns trees alternately.

The council yesterday considered a letter from the interested ratepayer, who preferred to remain anonymous, in which he oftered to donate the flowering trees if the present unsightly holly trees would be taken out.

Twenty-five years on the rack—almost out of her mis with nerves—her ailment mocking all treatment—de and nights continually harrassed!

Now read her letter:

Now read her letter:

"After my serious illness, my nerves got in a terrible state. I could not walk even to the top of our street. But now I am thankful to say, after taking Phosferine, I can go out alone without being upset, or even a bit nervous. And when I meet my friends, they are all surprised at seeing me out alone after being such an invalid in the house for over twenty-five years. It seems a new life to me, and I only regret I did not try Phosferine years ago, as I am sure I look and feel a new woman."

took place to-day at the Dominion Thestre when Fox Film's newest vehicle for the immittable Warner Ottong "Charife Chan in Paris," began an engagement there.

This time Chan journeye to France on a secret mission for a British banking house. Before he leaves Paris he has not only trached down a gang of forgers, but has plunged into the dangerous chadoys of his most baffling mystery. A phantom hiller has terrorised the gayest city in the world—and it is Charife Chan who captures him yed-handed, following two of the most hideous killings in Paristan, annais.

In this, the seventh of the famed Chan series, Fox has turned-out an ingenious and thrill-packed picture. Moving swiftly from episcée to opiscois, "Charife Chan in Paris" builds to an astonishing climax which even the most hardened mystery fans will have falled to forece. For above suspense and ingenuity, the newest of the Charlie Chan series read Chan one more registers heavily in his most celebrated role. In "Charife Chan in Paris," Cland has distinguished support. Mary Brian in the heroine of the story, with Thomas Beck appearing opposite her. Other well-known players who have important assignments are Erik Rhodes, John Miljan, Minor Watson, Henry Kolker, Dorothy Appleby, Buth Peterson and Murray Kinnell.

the action brought by Bertie Livington Robertson, Victoria accountant, squinet his former solicitor, Dougald Mealpine of Vancouver.

With P. J. Sinnett as his counsel, Mr. Robertson claimed an accounting on the ground that Mr. McAlpine had seted without authority in obtaining part of a legacy of slo.00e left to Mr. Robertson by an English relative and than that Mr. McAlpine as solicitor-trustees should not also be able to charge costs, too.

Mr. Justice Murphy held that though there was a retainer, Mr. Mc. Alpine must forfeit his costs in connection with the trusteeship. The function held that a solicitor acting as a trustee could not charge his client for his legal services, thus making the client liable to pay twice.

Claude McAlpine appeared as defence counsel for Mr. McAlpine.

Metropolitan United Church Choir Gives Fine Per-formance of Handel Work church was filled with a Victoria musical public to hear the first of two evening productions of Randel's oratorio, "Bamson," given by the Metropolitan augmented choir, with its organist, Edward Parsons, at the console of its magnificent organ and Maquinns Daniels at the grand plane and the whole under the direction of its choirmaster, Frank Tupman.

The occasion marked the choirs considerate gesture in the two hundred and fiftheth commemoration of the birth of George Prederic Handel, who, by the way received his letters of English naturalization on his forty-first hirthday.

Of Handel's eixteen oratorios, "Samson" was seventh in cader following the immortal "Messiah," and was first produced at Covent Garden in 1743, when the composer was nearing his half a century of compositional productions.

"Samson" is a wonderful treatment of Milton's dramatic and thrilling lament over the author's forform old age and the apostasy, as he deemed it, of his nation.

Ottawa, March 1.—The government bill placing 800,000,000 to the credit of the Canadian Prem Loan Bill to be advanced to farmers, passed through examitite etage in the House of Commons yesterday evening, now stands for third reading—a mere formality in view of the favorable attitude adopted by all parties. The bill will extend operations of the loan board to all provinces, which means new ground in Ontario, Saskatchewan and Prince Edward Island. In addition, it will make loans easier for farmers and reduce interest rates.

Under an amendment moved yesterday evening by Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes short term loans sectored by chatter mortgages will be accepted by the board up to a maximum of 87,500 or two-thirds of the appraised value of lands and buildings. Second mortgages will be limpiled in Quebec to 60 per cent of the appraised value because chattel mortgages are not legal.

Protests against a clause preventing municipalities from taxing land which reverted to the board under a mortgage were made by Thomas Reid, Liberal, New Westminster, and Hon.

How any two people above the grade of morons could ever see enough of each other to fancy themselves in love and contemplate spending the remainder of their lives together without taking the trouble to find out something about each other's point of view, and likes and dislikes, passes comprehension. But it happens every day. All of us know fine and worthy men and women married to exemplary wives and husbands, who are utterly miserable because everything one wants to do the other lates and loathes, and everything one enjoys is anothems to the other.

and everything one enjoys is anothems to the other.

They mystery of why they did not realise this dissimilarity in purpose and inclination in their courting days can only be explained by the fact that they were so busy asking each other: "Do you love me? Are you perfectly sure you will always love me?" and telling each other what wonderful eyes they had that they forgot to ask the far more important questions: "Do you like onlone with your beefsteak. Are you a bridge fiend, or do you yawn over the contract tables and have to be told what is trumpe?

Or cise, perhaps, it is superhuman vanity that causes people to marry their opposites in the belief that they can make them over and change them to their heart's desire. Or maybe it is just old Mother Nature, who is concerned only with keeping the race on an even keel and is not bethering with the well-being of the individual, who brings the antaqualistic together and leaves them to leather it has to the best way they can.

Be this as it may, the one thing that is certain is that the most important thing in marriage is congeniality. Nothing else really matters much. All the standardized virtues, all the conventional good qualities, all of the attributes of the ideal husband and wife are as nothing compared to the fact of whether he or she is your taste. Whether he or she is your man or woman.

Nome of us know why some particular man or woman just suits us, or

None of us know why some particular man or woman just suits us, or what there is about him or her that makes such companionship a joy; why we never talk out with some one; why some one is just our other self. We can no more capials this than we can why we crave roast beef or loather

But the people we enjoy being with, the friends whose companionship is a solace and a delight to us, are those who speak our language, who hold our opinions, who enjoy the books the plays, the amusements that we do. We soon get fed up on those who differ with us on every point and before whom we cannot express an opinion without starting something. Nobody's idea of a pleasant occasion is one spent in acrimonious debate.

And this goes double for marriage. If you will observe, you will see that the grouchy husbands and the prevish wives who are bitter about marriage and who live a Kilkenny cut domestic life are invariably uncongenial. Different likes. Different standards. One affectionals, the other cold. One domestic, the other a stapper-out. One is intellectual, the other never reads anything but the coulc strip in the papers.

Any husband and wife can have a beautiful time together as long as they like to do the same thing. It is only when one is a golf hound and the other esthes the sight of a links; when one is a spender and the other a tightwad, hat the trouble begins.

All of which indicates the necessity of every youth and maiden putting their prospective mates through a questionnaire about their likes and distinct on the safe side of the altar.

Whence, then, comes this strange recliess-hase I know,
This search for comething; what, I can habe sends me ever seeking to and fro Through youth to age, through guiden hours to gray?
Can it be thus men bunges for from hirth:
A beauty foreign to the fields of earth?

GRANTS TO FAIRS ARE INCREASED

Canadian Press
Ottawa, March 1.—Increased grants to fairs and exhibitions from the Do-minion Government were announced gesterday by Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir. Class A summer and winter fairs may now earn as much winter fairs may now earn as much as $5.000 from the government. Class B will be able to receive $2,500 in Quebec and $3,000 elsewhere. A statement by the minister gives these reasons for higher grants:

J. Adequately to increase and extend prise lists necessarily limited during the last few years on account of reduced grants.

2. To allow better provision by fair boards to obtain necessary judges of required calibre.
